Jeremy is a 17 year old boy who has been abused, neglected, and kicked out of his home. He resorted to living in his car until his school reported his situation to social services. He was appointed to the CASA program by the Family Court Judge where a CASA Volunteer and his social worker worked together to assess educational, medical, and therapeutic needs. The CASA also interviewed Jeremy’s biological family and his current foster placement and determined that the young man needed therapeutic services to address the trauma and emotional distress from his past experiences with abuse and neglect. The CASA volunteer worked with the young man to determine his path after his graduation and attended college visits and admissions meetings with Jeremy to ensure he was fully supported in his educational endeavors. The young man went on to graduate high school and will attend college this fall.
